Principal Dr. K. Srinivasa Rao garu expressed that November 7, 2025, marks the 150th anniversary of India's National Song "Vande Mataram," which translates to "Mother, I Bow to Thee." He stated that the song was composed by Bankim Chandra Chatterjee and was first published in the literary journal Banga Darshan on 7 November 1875.

Academic Co-ordinator Kishore Behara garu advised that Bankim Chandra Chatterjee later incorporated the hymn in his immortal novel "Anandamath," which was published in 1882, and the song was later set to music by Rabindranath Tagore.

NSS Co-ordinator D. Siva Phanindra garu explained that the song was first published in 1875. He also mentioned that this was corroborated by a passage written by Sri Aurobindo in the English daily "Bande Mataram" on 16 April 1907, where it was stated that Bankim had composed the renowned song thirty-two years earlier.

Lecturer in Political Science K. S. Kavitha garu said that the song "Vande Mataram" appeared as a standalone composition in the March–April 1881 issue of Banga Darshan, edited by Bankim Chandra Chatterjee. She also added that in 1907, Madam Bhikaji Cama hoisted the tricolour flag for the first time outside India at Stuttgart, Germany, and the words "Vande Mataram" were written on the flag.

At the end of the programme, all the participants and faculty members sang the National Song "Vande Mataram" together, creating a sense of patriotism and unity among everyone present.

As part of the programme, a Patriotic Songs Competition was conducted for students on the theme of the Indian Independence Movement, encouraging them to understand the importance of
